

Create a Simulated Environment in Cross-Culture Teaching: Design a Practical Class

Fang Pan 潘芳

frances_pan@yahoo.com

Is it enough to directly teach contents to transfer concepts?

Still waiting until you have chance to experience that? Can you anticipate possible mistakes?

Are students ready to negotiate in multicultural environment? Can they learn negotiation through books?

Real situations are designed by native professors from other cultures to practice cross-cultural management: simulated negotiations and practical exercises incite strong motivation and rapid evolvement of students